IRONION. MO .. THURSDAY, NOV. 24, 1881.

As Guiteau was being conveyed from the court room to his cell last Saturday, a cowardly whelp named Jones two shots into the prison van which contained the wretch now undergoing trial for an equally cowardly and more successful attempt at the same crime. While no American citizen would give a farthing for the life of the desplcable being who a short time since plunged the whole nation into grief and lamentation, the feeling predomidregree less commendable than the assaited. The striking of a manacled and helpless prisoner is too contemptible an; act for complacent criticism. Let the law take its course though tion 6853 of the Revised Statutes of 1879, the it is edited and conducted, the enterprise sometimes a little erratic in its movements, we may safely conclude in this instance it will go straight enough to the mark.

Rolla, Missouri.

ROLLA, Mo., Nov. 20, 1881.

Ed. Register-Judging that you possibly had space in the REGISTER for a few lines from this town, I will proceed to give you a hurried description of Rolla.

Rolla is a flourishing town of about two thousand inhabitants, situated on the "Frisco line," one hundred and fourteen miles southwest of St. Louis. The town is pleasantly situated, and hills rise up on either side of it to the height of several hundred feet.

As far as education is concerned, Rolla can boast of having as good a school as can be found anywhere in the State of Missouri; which is the School of Mines and Metallurgy. It also has a spacious Public School and several select schools.

The School of Mines and Metallurgy is a State institution, having been created by the legislative act of February, 1870, disposing of the Congressional grant of land for agricultural and mechanical colleges. It was opened in the month of November, 1871, and its indorse mob violence, but it is certain year. first graduates were turned out in June, 1874. This institution fits the him on Saturday last. There would be graduate for civil or mining engineer, very few displays of mob violence if chemist, assayer, or surveyor; so it is the courts were something else than the circulation of the Republican may retain nology. It is well furnished with engineering instruments and physica' apparatus, and offers excellent advantages for drawing-free-hand, ornamental, and mechanical. The laboratory for assaying and chemical analysis has been enlarged, and so have the cabinet collections.

As a general rule, a Debating Society is organized by the most energetic stu- ment, shining, as always, for big and little, dents, and the Debating Society of this mean and gracious, contented and unhappy, year will be incorporated by the State, Republican and Democratic, depraved and which will make it a permanent soci- virtuous, intelligent and obtuse.
